Garfield Ladner, Mayor, Leads Ticket To Victory In Waveland Election Saturday, September 16

Observations... By the Editor

With the death of Forster Commagere a vacancy exists in the office of Probation Officer for the County. Many rumors have been prevalent for the last few days as to who would receive the appointment; in fact, before Forster's death, it was rumored that he was to resign, and it was intimated that an appointment was in the making at that time. The position of a Probation Officer demands the services of a man, or woman, of high character. It should not become an implement of politics, to be used in the payment of a political debt. It should be kept on the same high plane upon which it was placed by Forster Commagere. To allow it to become a political football would be a desecration of the office and of the name of the man who filled it so faithfully in the past. The appointment, as we understand it, is made by the Chancellor, the Honorable D. M. Russell, upon a recommendation of the Board of Supervisors. We sincerely hope Judge Russell exercises the rare attribute of good judgment which he possesses, and when a recommendation is made to him. The future welfare of the youngsters of Hancock County, who may stray from the straight and narrow path, without thought, lies in the hands of our Probation Officer. Placing them in charge of an unscrupulous or indiscreet person, seeking this office for purely monetary gains, should cause the people of this county to rise in indignation.

Apparently the only thought of the Legislative committee appointed to offer suggested reforms of the State Government is to concentrate all government in Jackson. Their suggestion of the appointment of the State Highway Commission is headed for many a thump. The idea of centralizing government is the one issue this administration is supposed to be fighting in the national picture, and now, for these suggestions to rise from the ranks of Democracy in Mississippi is not fitting to the occasion. It has been the trend in the past few years for the State Government to usurp the powers of the local governments, and to make them subservient to the State government. Particularly is this true of the State Accounting Department under the bill passed at the last session of the Legislature on the budget system. This bill has completely wrapped up the authority of the Board of Supervisors, and has placed them absolutely under the control of the State Auditor as far as expenditures are concerned. This should not be. The Legislature could render a real service to the people of Mississippi if they realize that the average man holding county office is not learned in law, nor is he supposed to be; and if the multiplicity of ambiguous laws were repealed; if an understanding and clear cut version of the duties of county officers was written and adopted in language that is understandable by the average man it would be far better for all, than an attempt by State office holders to usurp the powers, and seek to control the county officers in their attempt to build a machine in the state administration.

It will be a real treat for you to see the new building of the Coast Electric Highway 90 at Main Street. This building is a credit to our county and to the officers and members of the Coast Electric Power Association. It is an architect's dream. Open house will be held this afternoon and evening from 2 to 9, and a cordial welcome awaits you. Hardin Shattuck and his co-workers will be there to greet you with open arms, and there will be a little treat for you. Drop by and say hello to these folks, and let them know you are interested and appreciate the confidence they have expressed in your community.

On several occasions we have had to refuse advertisements from our customers dealing with lottery or the offering of gifts or prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lot or chance, and the point has been argued with us on several occasions. The question arose again this week, and we have taken the time to secure a copy of the Postal laws and regulations from Postmaster Ford, and under these laws and regulations we cannot, under any circumstances, mail our paper with any suggestion of a lottery or the offering of prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lot or chance. We would be subject to a fine of $1000.00 or imprisonment of two years or both, and for a second offense imprisonment of not more than five years. No thank you, we are not interested.

Forster Commagere Dies Suddenly In Automobile Friday September 15

Pierre Michael (Forster) Commagere, 67, died Friday, September 15, at 4:10 p. m. as the result of a sudden heart attack.

Mr. Forster, as he was known to all, was riding along Necaise avenue, when, it appears, he felt the attack coming; he turned out to the side of the road; he died at the wheel of his car. When he was removed from the automobile, his feet were still on the clutch and brake.

This noted athlete, the son of the late Anna M. Bragg and Pierre M. Commagere, was born August 1, 1883, at Mandeville, Louisiana. He resided at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hart on Main street for a number of years.

The deceased was a member of the Pere Le Duc Council No. 1522 of the Knights of Columbus, an advisor on the Selective Service Board of the State of Mississippi, a member of the judgeship of juvenile delinquent courts under Judge D. B. Russell Sr., and he served as a Captain in World War I in the military service.

Coached Here 13 Years

In September 1915, Forster Commagere came to Bay St. Louis from St. Paul's College in Covington, Louisiana, where he had served from 1912 to 1915. He came here as coach at St. Stanislaus college and stayed until 1928 when he left for Gulfport to assume the position as coach at St. Stanislaus Military Academy. His assistant was Milton A. Phillips Sr. Following his resignation from this institution, about 15 years ago, he returned to Bay St. Louis to live.

Directed Field Day Meets

A former Tulane athlete, he served as County probation officer and athletic director of the County Public School System. It was under his direction that the annual Field Day meets were held.

in the County. He encouraged boys under his supervision to lead a good life by participating in clean and wholesome sports. He taught them the true art of sportsmanship, and he truly exemplified character.

Developed Stars

It was under his supervision at St. Stanislaus that a number of great athletes who later became famous, were developed. Among these were Marjory Schwartz, famous Notre Dame star; Zek Bonura, Nat Tyler, and Johnny Scaffide and "Wop" Glover, Tulane stars, and many others. As trainer of the Rock-A-Chaws during the days of "Doc" Blanchard, he helped develop this famous West Point athlete.

He started his sports career in 1912, and was still active at the time of his death in promoting clean sportsmanship among the youth of Hancock county. In August 1948, his American Legion junior baseball team brought honors to this outstanding man. "His youngsters" won the Regional Championship, the Southern Mississippi Regional Championship, and finished third in the State contest. They paid special tribute to their leader on the occasion of his birthday on that year.

Mr. Forster lived in Bay St. Louis with his mother until her death some years ago. An only child, he is survived by a number of cousins, Mrs. Carlos Green Sr., of Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Sidney Vigneaux, Mrs. Achille Vigneaux, Mrs. Wilfred Meridian, Mrs. Albert deffen, Mrs. Emily Prevost, Miss Annie Prevost, Mrs. William Steen, Mrs. Lizette Guirard, Rene Maduel, James Bertus, are all of New Orleans; and Adolph Commagere of Baton Rouge.

Funeral services were held Monday at 9:45 a. m. from Fahey Funeral Home by Rev. Father Patrick Grant, with Requiem High Mass at 10:00 a. m. at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic church celebrated by Monsignor A. J. Cichich. Interment was in the Brothers of the Sacred Heart cemetery with services conducted by Father Grant.

The Brothers of the Sacred Heart sang the parts of the Mass; and the students of St. Stanislaus turned out in full honors and marched in the procession to the cemetery.

Pallbearers were members of "his American Legion baseball team." They were Anthony Pittalo Jr., Lyman Crovetto, Charles Carter Jr., Roger Heitzmann Jr., Albert Burns, Bruce Favre, D. J. Luc, A. J. Chinchic, J. V. Morreale, Clem Bontemps, Gregory Favre, Fred Cabell, Edward Dupaquier and L. J. Uhle.

Honorary pallbearers were a number of his close friends and members of the Clement R. Bontemps Post 139 of the American Legion.

Peter J. Picone, 48, Dies of Bullet Wound

Pass Christian—Peter J. Picone, 48 year old French Quarter bar owner, died about 7:30 a. m. Tuesday September 19, in Memorial hospital, Gulfport, of a bullet wound in the abdomen. His 42 year old widow was charged with manslaughter.

Reed Winstead and Herman Finhold, city officials, investigated the shooting and county prosecutor Gaston H. Hewes stated that they reported finding evidence of three or four shots being fired into the kitchen, dining room base board and the bathroom door casing.

Mrs. Picone was released from the Harrison County Jail in Gulfport under $7,500 bond, Sheriff Laz Quave reported. The bond is returnable in county court October 9. Mrs. Picone was first held on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill. This was later changed after Picone made a statement to authorities Monday before he died. It is reported that on his death bed he said that the shooting may have been an accident.

Prosecutor Hewes quoted the wife as stating that she did not have any recollection of the shooting.

He said she stated she saw blood coming through her husband's shirt and summoned a physician. Picone was rushed to Gulfport for hospitalization and surgery after being wounded. He was wounded in the chest with the bullet penetrating through the back, it was reported.

Harrison County Sheriff Laz Quave said it was his understanding that the couple had had domestic troubles, and Hewes said Mrs. Picone told him that she had filed for a divorce last February but had not yet separated.

The Picones were married 13 years.

Mr. Picone was a native of New Orleans, Louisiana and his survivors include a son by a previous marriage, John Picone, 25; two sisters, Mrs. Lena Eusher and Mrs. Salvadore Christina; and two brothers, Felix and Salvador Picone.

Theatre to Present Entertaining Play

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's current production is a highly entertaining comedy, laid in New England. It is the story of a deceased painter whose works have become quite valuable, without the knowledge of the village folks with whom he resided prior to his demise. The array of persons coming into town seeking his paintings causes many mirthful scenes.

A small, but particularly good cast, promises an evening of entertainment in the best American form.

Joseph Huber of Gulfport, who did a professional job with the role when it was produced by the Gulfport Theatre, will star in the presentation here in Bay St. Louis. Among other members of the cast are Dr. Haggett, played by Phil Allison, always a favorite; Susan Haggett, Virginia Smith, well known among the younger actresses; Abby, played by Mrs. Paul Miller, who will be remembered in "A Doll's House"; Mrs. Haggett, Mrs. J. William Hill, a newcomer into the Theatre from Clermont Harbor; Ada Haggett, played by Lee Eseau, who has done such excellent work with roles entrusted to her in the past; Warren Creamer, Bill Smith, who always works well in the interest of the show; Tallant, Dr. Harold Keefe, whose talents have been an asset to the acting group; Rosen, Joseph Huber, who was previously introduced; and Davenport played by N. L. Carter, who has done excellent acting in the theatre, and who served as vice-president last year.

The play will be directed by Adeline Samuel, who has given the theatre some of its best plays, among them, "Rebecca," "Gas Light" and "The Mollusc."

Horses Die As A Result of Sleeping Sickness Outbreak

Two horses died within eighteen hours as the result of sleeping sickness, Howard Simmons, County Agent, stated today. The disease has started in the southern area of Hancock County.

There is no cure for an animal after it has taken the sickness, Simmons continued; "vaccination is as near protection as we have," he stated.

Dr. Moseley vaccinated quite a number of horses Tuesday and will return next Tuesday morning to give those horses the second shot; at that time he will vaccinate any other horses that have not been given the serum. It takes two shots a week, apart.

Horses owners are urged to take advantage of this opportunity, Mr. Simmons said, because this disease is contagious to human beings and is transmitted by blood sucking insects such as gnats, mosquitoes, ticks and fleas.

Dr. Moseley's schedule will be Lakeshore school, 8:00 a. m., Lakeshore dipping vat, 8:30 a. m., and Ed Ladner's, 9:30 a. m.

A GREAT MAN PASSES

Borne to the hallowed grounds of the Brothers Cemetery of St. Stanislaus College, an institution he loved, by teen age boys, members of the American Legion Baseball teams, whom he had coached, was a fitting climax to the life of Forster Commagere.

He came to Bay St. Louis in September 1915, as coach at St. Stanislaus. He remained there for a great number of years, blazing a trail of victories with his teams. Under his guidance in the field of athletics, the boys of Saint Stanislaus brought much recognition and great renown to this venerable institution operated by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart. In 1928 he resigned his post at St. Stanislaus and accepted a similar one at Gulf Coast Military Academy. In the early '30s Forster resigned from G. C. M. A. and returned to Bay St. Louis where he spent the remaining years of his life.

He was appointed Probation Officer and Athletic Director of the County Public School System, and under his rectorial annual field day meets were held. He encouraged boys to lead a good life by participating in clean and wholesome sports, and he taught them the true art of sportsmanship. He truly exemplified character, for he was a noble Christian gentleman.

The late Brother Peter, an authority on boys' work, paid a great compliment to Forster Commagere, when he told us, a number of years back, that Forster, who was then living at St. Stanislaus, was the greatest example of true Catholicity for the boys at the college. Continuing, he said, "the boys expect the Brothers, who are members of a religious order, to attend Mass and receive Holy Communion each morning; but Forster Commagere is a layman, one, the average boy considers an everyday man of the world. When, on each morning of his life, he is up at 5 o'clock and attends Holy Mass and receives Holy Communion, he is the greatest example we can offer to our boys." Forster was an outstanding member of the Catholic church, firm in his convictions. He respected the faith of others, and particularly, of the boys under his guidance. He demanded their attention to their religious duties. His sterling qualities shall ever be remembered; and it is to be hoped, they will ever serve as a guide to the boys of our county who were offered an opportunity to have come under his tutelage.

The words of Pliny the Younger truly fit Forster Commagere's life work: "The highest of character, in my estimation, is his, who is as ready to pardon the moral errors of mankind, as if he were every day guilty of some himself; and at the same time as cautious of committing fault as if he never forgave one."

Congressional Sidelights

by Congressman Wm. M. Colmer

WIND-UP

When the House, after a ten day recess to allow the Senate to catch up on the legislative program, resumed work last week, many confident predictions were heard that Congress could wind up all the legislation requested by the President for prosecution of the Korean war and adjourn or recess by Saturday.

Such hopes faded fast, though, as the week wore on, and as this is written the prospects are that the wind-up will not come before September 23 and maybe later.

The key situation is what action the President takes on the anti-subversive bill and how he acts after it reaches his desk for signature. Sometime ago he indicated that he would veto the Mundt-Nixon Bill, the original anti-Red bill, on the ground that it would violate fundamental personal liberties, but his attitude on the final version of the measure can only be conjectured.

The legislation passed both Houses by one-sided majorities, 354 to 20 in the House and 70 to 7 in the Senate, far more than enough to override a veto. Only two Senators from the South voted against the bill, Graham who was defeated for renomination in North Carolina a month or so ago, and Kefauver, of Tennessee. Senator Taylor, former running mate of Henry Wallace on the Progressive party ticket in 1948, who was also recently defeated for renomination, was another of the seven opposing the bill. The legislation is now in conference to iron out the differences between the House and Senate versions. If Congress is not still in session when a bill reaches the President, he has the privilege of killing it simply by not signing it. This possibility of a "pocket veto" leads to general reluctance in Congress to leave Washington before the President has taken some action on the anti-subversive bill. The Administration leaders insist that he will act promptly upon receipt of the bill, and if he does so, the Congress can reconvene on schedule.

EXCESS-PROFITS TAX

Much of the week was consumed in the House is a squabble over when an excess-profits tax is to be considered. In spite of strong sentiment in Congress for the immediate imposition of an excess profits tax, after the Korean War developed, the Senate Finance Committee took the position that it was no simple matter to find a formula for a tax that would skin off war profits without upsetting the whole economy and that the matter should be held over until next year to give time for a full study of the problem. When the bill came before the Senate, an excess-profits tax proposal was voted down only after a provision was written in calling for such a study, with a view to imposing the tax in 1951 but making it retroactive to July 1 or October 1, 1950.

The House went one step further when the bill came back to it by adopting an amendment to require the Senate Finance Committee to report to a bill to levy an excess-profits tax before the adjournment of the 81st Congress.

This would permit the Congress to recess until November and still consider the proposed levy prior to January 3, when the 81st Congress expires. The provision of this amendment insists that it morally binds the House to vote an excess-profits tax, but other members say that it was simply an expression of a hope that Congress will act this year.

P. T. A. Introduces New Faculty Members

W. S. C. S. Celebrates 10th Anniversary

This meeting marked the tenth anniversary of the changing of the name of the group from the Womens Missionary Society to the Womens Society of Christian Service.

A social hour was enjoyed after the program with refreshments served in the church annex. The large birthday cake, made in the form of a ten by Mrs. W. L. Bourgeois, was cut and served.

Dig and Transplant Shrubs Now

Now is the time to dig and transplant shrubs—especially those which will lose their leaves, advised Henry Smith, Extension Landscape Specialist.

"If shrubs are dug and moved about the time the leaves drop, it is likely that they will grow and bloom with a new lease on life next Spring."

Before digging the plant, cut the branches back to main body of the shrub, being careful not to strip the bark; be sure to get a good ball of dirt with the roots and place in a new hole larger than the root system of the plant, he said.

Do not overlook the opportunity to get native plants from the woods near your home. Many of the best plants to use in improving your home landscape can be found in most sections of the state.

Protect plants as azaleas and camellias from ice and frost with a deep mulch of leaves or pine straw, when low temperatures are predicted, cover favorite plants with heavy cloth to keep the frost off, he suggested.

If you are planning a new home, select your lot carefully, try to have at least 1/2 acre for actual yard. An acre or two would be better.

HELPFUL IDEAS

I have had a couple of things on my mind for some time, which I believe would be of benefit to the county, and which are along the lines you have been advocating in your paper. First, as you and I know, the county owns nearly a mile of beach between Gulfside and Clermont Harbor.

As you also know the State Forest and Park service is increasing the number of state parks and these parks are being used in ever increasing numbers by the public each year. The Board of Supervisors could lease or convey to the State Forest and Park Services, who would build cabins, lay out camp sites, provide bathing and fishing facilities for the public. While this is not in Bay St. Louis this would provide a beach for public use and Bay St. Louis would share in the benefits.

Second—In riding up and down the beach, it appeared to me that numbers of white people use part of the property along the seawall that belongs to the Gulfside Assembly. As we know white people do not want colored people using the beach in front of their property; therefore, I think that white people should stay off the beach in front of property owned by the colored people. I think it would be in order, for instance, if at the East and West lines of the Gulfside property, signs would be put up saying "for colored only."

Third—what do you think of getting up a fund to put up a plaque or a monument in some appropriate place in honor of Forster Commagere, "The best friend the boys in the county ever had."

I merely offer these thoughts to you as some ideas that I believe would be of benefit to Hancock County as a whole.

Brother of Local Resident Dies In Pittsburg Sunday

Walter Burns, 53 year old resident of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, died at his home Sunday, September 17, at 8:30 p. m. following an illness of long duration. Mr. Burns was the only brother of Mrs. P. Schertz of our street.

Mr. and Mrs. Schertz, their daughter, Mrs. Lee Esau and her son, went to Pittsburg in July of this year and had a long visit with Mr. Burns.

Other survivors are his wife; two sisters, Mrs. Ralph Reese, of Akron Ohio; and Mrs. Linda Hawthorne of New York.

Mr. Burns was, before his illness, a salesman for a large wholesale firm in Pittsburg.

—Guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wehre were Mrs. Macey McGinty of New Orleans and Mrs. Jack Gibson of Hattiesburg.

Dr. and Mrs. P. F. Murphy of Waveland have sold their home; they will return to New Orleans in about six weeks.

600 Loss Down

At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1950, the commodity credit corporation had $5,338,125,000 invested in price support loans and purchases. The CCC experienced a loss of $249,280,000 during the year as against $254,000,000 in the previous fiscal year. Of the total investment $2,600,000,000 was in the value of inventories built up through purchases, loan and purchase agreement operations.

The government is again being forced to buy thousands of bushels of the 1950 potato crop under the new agricultural act as amended. And apparently the new amendment adopted after presentation by Senator Aiken of Vermont, which provides for purchase of potatoes under the program only where marketing agreements are in effect, is a complete flop. For instance in North Carolina the government is taking about 60 per cent of the crop; in New Jersey almost 100 per cent of the best crop in recent years, and, in both instances, marketing agreements were in effect. It appears, according to department officials, that where marketing agreements are in effect about all the potatoes go to the government at the support price.

Warns of Land Speculation

The department of agriculture, through its farm credit administration, is seeking a method to clamp down on farm land speculation. Warnings are going out to farm organizations and to USDA agencies throughout the country to warn farmers against purchase of high priced land, urging cooperation to prevent land purchase for speculative purposes. Such land speculation may raise the price of land, causing inflation.

Split Personalities

Mopping his brow confusedly, shortly before recess, Pennsylvania's congressman Robert F. Rich, (R) remarked on the floor of the house: "What this congress needs most right now is a good psychiatrist."

This column is inclined to agree with the gentleman from the Keystone state, for if there were ever overt evidence of schizophrenia, of split personalities, it is the attempt of congress in an election year to try to impose taxes and controls "beyond the call of duty," of attempting to play smart politics and at the same time become "statesmen" and patriots; of backing up the war effort to the hilt, and at the same time politically sap at the leadership; of scores of "Monday morning quarterbacks" demanding the whole coaching staff resign; of short tempers and bellicose word-battles.

For instance, it is indeed strange, particularly in an election year, that there would be any opposition to enactment of an excess profits tax to "take the profit out of war" when, at the same time, the members are voting men into the front line trenches. Yet that's the paradox, even when profits have been extraordinarily high this year even the peace time profits. The President, even was willing to accept an interim revenue bill without the excess profits tax provision, if he could get it in a hurry. But he didn't get it in a hurry. It was almost two and a half months before he got anything he asked for the war effort, except the draft law—draft of men, that is.

The perennial highway bill is another example. It always has been regarded as a vote-getting vehicle—federal aid to highways, particularly for secondary and farm-to-market roads. The President had asked a cut of $240,000,000 in the bill, but the senate went to whole hog and slashed away $359,000,000, most of it at the expense of these secondary and farm roads.

Another example of the split personality is in the rivers and harbors bill, or pork barrel measure. Only a few short weeks ago the congress voted millions of dollars in authorizations, but the conferees, although knowing these expenditures are vote getters in a normal election year, voted to build no projects not certified by the President as necessary to the war effort. Universal military training, certainly not conducive to coralling votes, is now being given a hearing.

This rampant congress, set on treading on the President's toes and in voting away its own responsibility, refused to make cuts in the omnibus appropriations bill and voted an across-the-board 10 per cent cut in all appropriations. This is congressional responsibility, not the President's. It is the President's responsibility to make foreign policy, but the senate added to the confusion by making foreign policy for France's Fascist Spain of $100,000,000. The house cut it down to $62,000,000 as this is written.

At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1950, the commodity credit corporation had $5,338,125,000 invested in price support loans and purchases. The CCC experienced a loss of $249,280,000 during the year as against $254,000,000 in the previous fiscal year. ## Lorraine Lott Awarded $1000, and $100 a Week Job with Hadacol

Miss Lorraine Lott, daughter of Supervisor and Mrs. Jack Lott of Kiln, Mississippi, left this week for Fort Worth, Texas, where she is employed by the Hadacol Corporation. Miss Lott won the $1000 a week job in Fort Worth recently.

From among Southern beauties chosen in cities visited by the Hadacol Good Will Caravan on its 19-city tour, Lorraine was chosen "Queen of the Southland," and given the $1000 prize and job.

Half of the girls in the contest were eliminated at Dallas, and the remaining 13 competed in Fort Worth for the grand prize.

Miss Lott had not entered the Hadacol beauty contest held last Saturday night at the Southwest Louisiana Industrial Fair and Port Exposition, where she had been named Queen of the Exposition when it opened in Lake Charles August 20. As queen of the Port Exposition, representing the Southwest Louisiana Texas A. and M. Club, Lorraine will also receive a free trip to Havana, Cuba. Along with the title of Exposition Queen, she also won the title of Princess Lake Charles to enter the Opelousas Vambillee contest. She has withdrawn from the contest now that she is taking the position with the Hadacol Corporation.

Following the Hadacol show in Lake Charles (where Lorraine resides part of the time with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Morris) Senator LeBlanc, the Hadacol man, spotted Lorraine and asked her to join the Hadacol Caravan when it left for Texas; it was then that she was entered in the contest.

Senator LeBlanc's representatives announced that the show played to 6800 in Fort Worth that night, and that the half million dollar medicine show piled up an attendance record of 381,500 in the 19 cities.

In describing her job, Lorraine said, "The Senator wants to take me, and the second and third place winners, along with a couple of other girls on a tour. We'll travel around, visiting wholesale houses and drug stores, and appearing in publicity pictures and interviews."

Lorraine was graduated in 1947 from Bay High school; she went to live with her sister in Lake Charles while she attended McNeese college.

Transferring to Louisiana State University in her junior year, Lorraine was chosen a favorite to the Darling of L. S. U., from among 112 girls. In addition to this, she was chosen Queen of the Pan American Fiesta last spring.

Going in for politics at L. S. U., she was elected co-ed vice-president of the student body, making her the top-ranking girl in campus politics.

Lorraine, as winner of the Hadacol contest, signed a contract for three months, and was offered a year's employment at the same rate of pay, and with all expenses. At the end of the three months, she may renew the contract with LeBlanc, or return to L. S. U. next semester to continue work on her degree.

P-T.A. Discussed At Rotary Meeting

When the Pass Christian Rotary Club met Tuesday Mrs. E. A. Allen, president of the parent teachers association, was introduced by Dr. Willis Gaylord Clark as guest speaker.

Mrs. Allen told the group that the P. T. A. was 44 years old and had 35,000 units throughout America with a membership of well over six million.

The Rotary Club was invited to enroll and support the P. T. A. movement. Mrs. Allen, in her talk, said, "The problems of today's schools are the problems of all who seek to build a better tomorrow. It is our duty to help all children to take their places as responsible American citizens. Throughout our land civic improvement clubs, discussion groups and forums review the problems of American life. Often these groups feel that certain problems can best be met by the schools. It is not fair to say, 'Let the school do it'. We must do our part in seeing that the schools are prepared and equipped to do the job we expect of them."

We are on the threshold of a new decade. It is time for us to ask ourselves the question, "What do we want for America and her children?" and more specifically "what do we want for Pass Christian and her children and youth?"

Most of us want every child to have a good home where he may have proper care, good guidance, a sense of security, a place where he will learn to understand his basic rights and his duties as an American citizen. We want all children to grow up in a good community where he will have spiritual growth and cultural interest, and a chance to learn to work well with others. We want all children to have good schools where individual capacity is developed for the child's own happiness and the welfare of society as a whole. We want all children to have an opportunity to earn a decent living and contribute to the economic strength of America, and we want all children to have a chance to practice DEMOCRACY.

"The P. T. A. is most grateful to the Rotarians for their splendid whole hearted support and cooperation."

Mrs. Allen stated that the Rotarians' enrollment in the P. T. A. has given the organization a sufficient number of members who are not teachers or parents to make the group eligible for the superior rating.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Chances of Making Money from Hogs Is Brighter

By HOWARD SIMMONS

Chances of making money in the hog business are much brighter if pigs get off to a good start. With September and October pig farrowing time for fall litters in this section, some extra care will pay. The first two weeks is the most important part of a hog's life.

At birth a pig should weigh two and one-half pounds or more, and five and one-half pigs are required to support a sow for 12 months. So the farmer who can raise eight or more pigs per litter stands a much better chance to make money in the hog business.

About five days before the farrowing time, bring the sow in where she is to farrow.

The single farrowing house should be on clean ground. If a farrowing house is used, the pen should have been disinfected with a solution made by dissolving one pound of lye to 20 gallons of water.

Replace 15 pounds of corn in the ration with 15 pounds of wheat bran. Feed about two pounds daily and provide plenty of fresh water.

The farrow pen should be eight feet by eight feet with guard rails 10 inches high and six to eight inches from the wall. An electric brooder or heater in one corner during fall farrowing will pay dividends.

Bedding should be short straw or shavings. Much straw, or long straw causes trouble in tangling the young pigs.

Someone should be present when the animal farrows. Do not expose the sow and litter to cold drafts and rain.

After farrowing, the sow should not be fed for 24 hours. Then feed little for about a week, and only a laxative feed as before farrowing.

Place the sow on full feed with free choice after a week.

Pigs farrowed on concrete floor should be provided with a shovel full of fresh soil to prevent anemia.

Remove sow and litter to pasture paddocks in about five days. Run not more than five sows with litters together in a pasture paddock. Even better, have only three sows and litters on the area, and

The students will begin their annual Retreat Thursday evening, September 21, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Ervin Bauer, S. V. D. will conduct the retreat.

News Items from St. Augustine's Seminary, Bay St. Louis.

Frater Joseph Francis, S. V. D., will be ordained Deacon, Thursday, September 21. Bishop Gerward Poyadue, is home on a fifteen day leave before going to Camp Stoneman, California, for assignment in the Far East Command. Cpl. Poyadue has spent 26 months in Japan, and says he finds the ocean trip rather exciting.

Rocks Lose Opener To Foley, Alabama

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws journeyed to Foley, Alabama Friday, September 15, and dropped their opening tilt to the boys from the potato belt. The Rocks had a difficult time getting their offense to function due to numerous offside and backfield-in-motion penalties.

Foley opened the scoring in the latter part of the first quarter with a pass that was good for 45 yards and a TD. They failed to convert. The halftime found the score 6-0 in favor of Foley.

Stanislaus kicked off to Foley, covered another fumble only to start the third quarter, and with the exception of four plays, Foley by the same method. Time ran held the ball the entire quarter finally driving over the middle other penalty was being called. for a score from the three yard line. Again, penalties for offside and roughing helped the Foley cause to maintain possession of the ball.

COME TO LIFE
In the fourth quarter, behind 13 to 0, the Rocks came to life. They pushed the Foleyites back and finally threw the Foley ball carrier behind the goal for a safety and two points. Foley kicked off from their 20 and Holmes returned it to midfield. Rooney, on a wide spread, traveled around 15 yards and the Rock offensive finally began its move. Rooney drove over to a TD from the seven, to have it called back for offside once again.

Foley regained possession of the ball only to fumble a little later on the 30. From here the Rocks drove down to the goal with a sneak, making the score 13-8.

A little later the Rocks regained possession of the ball only to lose the ball just one down later. The Rocks were penalized for over 100 yards while Foley was penalized 45 yards.

Palermo and Caruso stood out in the line, while Rooney, Heitzmann and Costello helped aid the backfield cause.

Stanislaus has an opening date this week which will be put to great use in preparing for the Bogalusa Lumberjacks whom the Rocks will meet September 29.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks to our many friends who made it possible for our entire ticket to be overwhelmingly elected in the First Primary.

Many people have wondered why we did not defend ourselves against the bitter attacks and false accusations made by our opponents throughout the past four years. We felt that it would be adverse publicity to our Town to carry on a bitter newspaper campaign, which could only end with even the winner being the loser. Throughout our administration, we have always tried to put the welfare of Waveland first, even before our personal feelings.

Waveland has progressed under this administration for the past eight years, and with the help of the people, we hope it will continue to go forward.

We offer the hand of friendship to those, who exercised their right and voted for candidates of their choice, who were our opponents. We solicit their help in working with us in making our Town of Waveland a better place in which to live.

OBSERVATIONS (Continued from page 1)

One of our subscribers clipped H. T. Carr's antique add and mailed it in to us, with a circle around the word "Wright," with the following notation "I have noticed this for some time. Is it done purposely?" Yes, this is the way Mr. Carr wanted it spelled. He contends this is the antique way. Again this shows the interest in our paper, even in our advertisement. We want to thank our subscriber for his interest, and we want you all to be interested in your paper. We are here to serve you and to try and give you a better paper.

As we have said before, we wonder sometimes where all the children come from who are attending school in Bay St. Louis. We now have the following figures for the public school registration: Whites, 567, and colored, 157. ## New National Sickness-Accident Plan Pays $85 Monthly Benefits

Amazing New Policy
Has Special Hospital
Feature; Costs Only
$1.00 a Month

NEW ORLEANS—The newly known National Health & Accident Association has just announced a new health and accident plan that pays $85 each month for as long as a quarter of a year for either stated Sickness or Accidents—plus $100 additional benefit for injuries requiring hospital treatment—and yet cost as little as $1 a monthly or $11 if paid yearly in advance. The purpose of this new plan is to bring sickness and accident protection within reach of the average man or woman who do not have large savings with which to meet sudden doctor or hospital bills, or loss of income.

The new plan covers all kinds of transportation including Automobiles, Buses, Streetcars, Trains, Subways, Taxicabs, and even Airplane Travel. An unusual attraction for this type policy is the clause that pays $3.00 per Surgeon's or Doctor's visit up to $25.00 for simple accidents such as a cut finger, etc. In case of death from common accidents the policy pays from $250.00 to $500.00 with a double indemnity feature of $1,000.00 for death in a common carrier. The policy covers numerous common sicknesses such as appendicitis operations, typhoid fever, pneumonia (lobar), cancer, etc., paying the monthly indemnity whether confined to home or hospital.

Men and women in good health between the ages of 16 and 75 are eligible for this protection, regardless of occupation, race or color. There is a slight increase in premium for people over the age of 60—but no increase in benefits. A simple statement that you are in good health is all that is required. Benefits begin at once for accident and for sickness contracted 30 days from date of policy.

You may receive full details about this new plan by writing a letter or postcard for illustrated 2-color booklet. This booklet is absolutely free. It will come by ordinary mail without charge or obligation of any kind on your part. No agent will call. We suggest that you write for your booklet today. ## Complete Plans For State Fair

Jackson (Special) —Plans for the 1950 Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Exposition, better known to Mississippians as the annual State Fair, were announced today by J. M. Dean, Secretary-Manager.

Dates for the annual Exposition have been set for Monday, October 9 through Saturday, October 17, at the State Fairgrounds in Jackson.

Monday, opening day, will see all exhibits open and a parade by government units with special participation planned by junior exhibitors.

Tuesday is Veterans' and Veterans' Service Organizations Day.

Wednesday will be State, County and Municipal Government and Civic Organization Day.

Thursday has been designated Farmers' and Livestock Day as well as Aviation Day.

Friday, traditional day for children all over the state to come to the State Fair, will again be observed as School Day. Special attention will also be given to the Mississippi Forestry Commission on Friday with a mile long parade.

Saturday, as usual, will be Mississippi Travelers' Day.

Members of the Agricultural and Industrial Exposition Commission are: St. Corley, State Commissioner of Agriculture; L. I. Jones, Director of State Extension Service; J. M. Dean, Executive Secretary; Frank D. Baxlow, Mississippi Livestock Association; H. E. Mauldin, Director of Vocational Education for the State Department of Education; J. Donovan Ready, Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board; and R. S. Withers, City Commissioner of Jackson.

Visitors to the 1950 State Fair will notice the absence of the old Commercial Building, which was torn down this summer as part of the improvement program underway in the Fairgrounds. Exhibits formerly housed in this building will be found this year in the Agricultural Building, Mr. Dean said.

Also a temporary hog barn has been built back of the new Livestock building to provide better facilities, he added.

Rules and regulations concerning entries for exhibits and awards, as well as other general information, are contained in the Fair catalog. Prospective exhibitors wishing a copy of the catalog and entry blanks should write the Executive Secretary.

Entries in the various department contests must be received at the office of the secretary on the Fairgrounds not later than October 1.

United Gas will again add 50 per cent in premiums to all winners in the junior classes, it was announced.

Governor Fielding L. Wright, in a statement in the catalog said: "Fairs and Livestock Shows are important institutions in Mississippi, and I wish to express my personal interest and pride in the progress made in recent years."

"Believing you will want to acquaint yourself with the latest developments in agriculture and industry, I urge you to attend the 1950 State Fair."

Mayor Allen S. Thompson of Jackson said: "The Mississippi State Fair is our fair, and we sincerely urge you to attend it. There is much for you to gain from the many interesting, educational, and entertaining features which have been arranged for your instruction and enjoyment."

"As Mayor of Jackson, I invite you to spend some time in your Capitol City while attending your State Fair."

Two big entertainment events have been scheduled for this year's State Fair. The Barnes-Carruthers musical extravaganza "State Fair Revue of 1950" will be presented at the grandstand nightly.

The Royal American shows, billed as the "world's largest midway" will present a galaxy of midway attractions and will feature this year "Wee Bonnie Baker," the famous "Oh, Johnny Girl." Miss Baker appears with her original cast of Broadway and Hollywood stars and 16 beautiful dancing girls.

Store Fertilizer Now

Will farmers have all the fertilizer they need for fall and spring plantings?

Not unless they store it on their farms at once.

That is the word which comes from the National Fertilizer Association in Washington.

Although the industry is fully equipped to meet everyone's requirements, Dr. Russell Coleman, the organization's president, says that some farmers may be disappointed. Industry supplies now on hand must move steadily from the plants to the farm, he explains, so as to allow space for additional fertilizer to be produced and processed.

"Never has the industry been in a better position to provide farmers with all the fertilizer they require," says Dr. Coleman. "But never has the anticipated demand appeared so heavy."

Factors affecting the outlook: (1) Fertilizer use has steadily soared for the past 11 years. (2) Announcement that Government will support the 1951 wheat crop at 90 percent of parity. (3) Expectations that the Government will also hold supports up to the full percent of parity for cotton, corn, tobacco, rice and peanuts.

OUTDOOR STORAGE OF SUGARCANE DOES NOT DAMAGE SIRUP

Study Reveals That There Is No Advantage in Protecting Sugarcane While Waiting To Make It Into Sirup.

State College, Miss.—There is no advantage in protecting harvested sugarcane from rain and cold weather, and cane may be stored outdoors for as long as 28 days without loss in yield or quality of sirup.

These two conclusions are reported by I. E. Stokes, associate agronomist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, after two years of study at the U. S. Sugar Plant Field Station at Meridian. Results of the study have been published by the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station.

Sugarcane produced on small farms in Mississippi is usually harvested by the farm family and a few temporary day laborers. Likewise the sirup is usually manufactured by the farm family or by neighbors who do the work on a custom basis. The demand for labor to carry on harvesting and manufacturing, limits the capacity of the producer. In many cases this results in a delay of from 20 to 30 days between cutting the cane and milling the finished sirup. Many farmers believe this delay causes a loss in yield of sirup per ton of cane and that the sirup produced is of poor quality.

Limited observations and small scale experiments indicated that a good quality of sirup can be obtained from sugarcane when manufacturing operations are conducted several weeks after cutting. Therefore, tests were designed to determine the effects of delaying manufacturing on total yield and quality of sirup.

Two methods of storage, protected and unprotected, were used on samples of two cane varieties. The protected samples were covered to stimulate open shed conditions. The unprotected samples were exposed to normal outdoor weather.

Other conclusions reached as a result of the study are: (1) cost of evaporation is reduced as the storage period is extended, (2) dried by storage and evaporation is improved by storage and (3) different storage conditions and length of storage do not affect flavor of the sirup.

L & N Presented Ethridge To Speak At Annual Law Banquet

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad was one of several railroads presented an E. H. Harriman award for outstanding safety performance in 1949, at the hotel Ambassador, New York City, September 20. The Certificate of Commendation awarded the L & N for its outstanding safety record in 1949 among Class A railroads in the Southern District. Class A roads are those operating 10,000,000 or more locomotive miles per year.

President John E. Tilford, of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, accepted the Certificate for this company; the L & N was also represented at the dinner by James B. Hill, chairman, advisory committee, Louisville; A. Lee M. Wiggins, chairman of the board, Louisville S. C., and Frederick B. Adams, chairman of the executive committee, New York City.

Other awards in the Southern District were made to the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad (Class B) and the Tennessee Central Railroad (Class C).

The Norfolk and Western Railway received the E. H. Harriman Gold Medal for the best safety record for all Class A railroads at that time; the Western Maryland Railway for Class B railroads and the Colorado and Wyoming Railway for Class C railroads.

The awards—both medals and certificates—were a part of the E. H. Harriman Memorial Medals which were established in 1913 by the late Mrs. Mary W. Harriman in memory of her husband, Edward H. Harriman. They are made each year on the basis of the official records of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the preceding year, the railroads being ranked in their several groups according to their individual ratings in the fields of both passenger and employee safety.

The awards were presented by James G. Lyne, editor, The Railway Age, and chairman of the Award Committee, American Museum of Safety, Wallace J. Falvey, president of the Museum, president, Colonel Robert S. Henry, vice president of the Association of American Railroads and noted historian, addressed the group.

Jackson (Special) —Mark Ethridge, vice-president and publisher of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, Louisville, Kentucky, will be the featured speaker at the banquet of the 5th annual Law Institute in Jackson on November 24, according to Rowana H. Taylor, chairman of this year's Institute Committee of the Jackson Junior Bar Association.

A native of Meridian, Mr. Ethridge has served on newspapers in Georgia, Virginia, New York City and Washington, D. C. and is recognized as one of the nation's foremost journalists.

In 1933 he went to Europe on a fellowship from the Oberlander Trust to study political and economic conditions in Central Europe, particularly, social security measures and the ramifications of the Versailles Treaty.

In October, 1945 Mr. Ethridge was former Secretary of State Byrnes' private "reporter" on a Balkan situation and later represented the United States on a United Nations mission to investigate trouble in Greece and try to settle the Arab-Israel dispute.

In 1948 he was appointed Chairman of the United States Advisory Commission on Information and last year was appointed on the United Nations Palestine Conciliation Commission.

The 5th Annual Law Institute is co-sponsored by the Jackson Junior Bar Association and the University of Mississippi Law School. It will be held at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in Jackson November 24 and 25 and will consist of forums and lectures on legal subjects of general interest to lawyers. Mr. Ethridge's speech will not be of a legal nature, however, Mr. Taylor pointed out.

—Guests of Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Lee Sunday were Mr. Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Lee, of Mobile, Alabama; his grandmother, Mrs. Clem Lambrecht, of Lower Peachtree, Alabama and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lott and children, Charlene, Shirley and Betty Kay.

Vaccinate Female Calves Against Brucellosis Now

The brucellosis control and eradication program now operating in Mississippi, which consists of vaccinating female calves against brucellosis (Bang's disease) and the testing and elimination of adult animals with the disease, has made very satisfactory progress during the first six months of this year.

The program which is sponsored by the State Livestock Sanitary Board in cooperation with the County Boards of Supervisors is now in full operation in 26 counties of the state.

Beginning January 1, 1951 through July 31, 1950, twenty-three thousand heifer calves were vaccinated under the county system. In addition to these, practicing veterinarians and veterinarians employed by the Bureau of Animal Industry vaccinated more than eight thousand head in other counties of the state.

During this same period of time eighteen thousand cattle were tested by veterinarians employed in the county-state work while twenty-three thousand were tested by the Bureau of Animal Industry and approximately thirteen thousand by private practicing veterinarians.

All indications are that the second half of this year will be as good if not better than the first half. Several new counties are expected to be added to the original group of counties which are distributed over the entire state.

The work is carried on entirely on a voluntary basis with the livestock owners. Cooperation has been exceptionally good—refusals are seldom encountered.

Each cattle owner receives personal attention to his particular herd problem. He may have the assistance of the graduate veterinarian in making plans for his individual needs.

Through this long range plan brucellosis can be eliminated from the infected herds and prevented from entering healthy non-infected herds.

Invent A Pasture Dream

State College, Miss.—A machine, called the "Pasture Dream," which successfully does in a single operation the five or more jobs of land preparation and planting a pasture, while leaving a sod or grazing crop already on the field disturbed so little that cattle can usually keep grazing every day after planting, was announced today by the Agricultural Extension Service of Mississippi State College.

Designed to help reach Mississippi's Pasture Decade, 1950-60, goal of reclaiming over 5,000,000 neglected acres, the machine puts into practice pasture building methods developed through years of research and found profitable by many farmers under typical farming conditions.

Principle of this machine has been studied for six years by the Tennessee Valley Authority, in cooperation with the University of Tennessee and Agricultural Extension Service workers of Mississippi State College.

Mr. Thompson used research findings and the results of TVA Extension Service demonstrations in North Mississippi to help Mr. Taylor and his associates test and improve their original pasture machine.

The all-metal "Pasture Dream" looks much like an ordinary grain and fertilizer drill. One of the two compartments of the hopper can be used for seed and the other for fertilizer or minerals at the same time.

Two kinds of, minerals or fertilizers can be put out in one operation if planting is not done at that time.

Below the hopper on a frame are seven special boots through which seed and fertilizer fall. Each boot has a rolling coulters ahead of it.

The foot, at the lower end of each boot, has the long, thin point of a pasture renovator. It does the same kind of job as the teeth of pasture renovators which have become fairly common in Mississippi.

Spacing between feet is 10 inches. Points are made of manganese, one of the hardest metals known. Any of the feet can be removed to make spacing multiples of ten inches.

The entire boot and foot assembly is attached to the hydraulic system of the tractor and can easily be pulled up out of the ground.

Fittings will be available for operation with any make of tractor.

A big problem in building the machine was to make the coulters slice deeply enough into the ground, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Taylor stated. Weight alone to accomplish this would have made the entire assembly too heavy.

Designing the feet to form enough suction with the soil to keep the depth of cut uniform solved the problem. Usual depth reached is about three inches, but adjustment can be made for other depths.

A wide variety of seeds can be planted with the "Pasture Dream." Or it can be used just to apply fertilizer to pasture sod and renovate it at the same time.

For planting, an attachment fits inside the boot to keep seed and fertilizer separated.

Oats have so far been the main crop planted in testing the machine. But it will successfully plant millet, peas, corn, and other field crops.

The "Pasture Dream" is not made to seed clovers, although a cultipacker can be hitched behind it and other changes made for handling such small seed.

A feature is that the hopper, to which two wheels are attached, can be separated from the lower frame, coulters and boots by removing only two bolts.

Fitted with a tongue, the hopper can then be used to apply top dressing. An operation such as top dressing oats with nitrogen and sowing lespedeza seeds at the same time can also be done this way.

The manufacturer plans large quantity production of the "Pasture Dream." "We will add everything we find out as we go along," Mr. Taylor said. "Farmers say, 'This is it,' but to us it is only the beginning."

Mr. Taylor, who grew up on a Mississippi farm, was consulting engineer in developing the machine. The first two were hand made by T. Z. Brown, shop superintendent, and his machinists.

At Mr. Thompson's suggestion, the manufacturer is planning to build the "Pasture Dream" in different sizes. There may be a smaller machine which can be drawn by mules for small farms in the hills and South Mississippi, and a larger, wider one with additional wheels for use in the Delta.

Results of plantings made with the "Pasture Dream" during the past season, or with other machines of this kind for several seasons, have been favorable.

A typical "Pasture Dream" demonstration was held last fall on the farm of R. P. Hartness, Jr., Oktibbeha County dairyman. Oats were planted, slag applied and renovation done on a well established sod of Bermuda grass and white Dutch clover.

The oats made a good stand and provided winter grazing, Mr. Hartness said. White Dutch clover came in well this spring after the oats had been grazed down.

The kind of mineral placement done by the "Pasture Dream" is needed to grow clovers, Mr. Hartness believes.

"My experience is that if you don't get the minerals into the soil you don't get the results," he declared.

Scarcely a trace could be found in late spring of the narrow furrows made by the machine in slicing through the sod last fall.

Chances for erosion are greatly reduced when this method of planting is used, agricultural engineers and agronomists point out.

The TVA experimental pasture machines have been used for three years in demonstrations in Prentiss, Alcorn and Tishomingo counties. This work was done through the cooperation of county cultural extension agents.

Labor saving and fuel saving features of the TVA combination renovating, fertilizing and planting machines were stressed by farmers in Prentiss County.

"A lot of times a man hasn't time to do a pasture renovating job otherwise," stated W. A. Jennings.

On six acres which had been idle for many years, Mr. Jennings did nothing but run the pasture renovator. He planted two and one-half bushels of oats per acre, and applied 200 pounds per acre of ammonium nitrate. The renovator cut two and one-half to three inches deep.

Oats on this reclaimed area provided good grazing for Mr. Jennings dairy cattle, and the land was improved.

"I certainly think I got my money out of it," Mr. Jennings stated.

C. C. Blackburn, another Prentiss County farmer, submitted a record comparing labor and other costs between the TVA renovator and the usual several operations.

Using the machine, it took 18 tractor hours and 36 man hours to do the complete job of renovating, applying fertilizer and planting oats on 10 acres. Another six acres planted by the regular method required 60 tractor hours and 60 man hours, Mr. Blackburn stated.

Tractor fuel used was 26 gallons with the pasture machine, compared to 76 gallons by the usual method, still keeping in mind that 10 acres were planted using the machine compared to only six the usual way.

Separate operations by the regular method were disking, harrowing, cultipacking, spreading slag, seeding with spreader and spreading ammonium nitrate.

In the case of the machine, applying fertilizer and seeding was done where Sudan grass was already growing and being grazed. Work by both methods was done early last September.

Your State Health Officer Says

I heard someone say recently, "Why should the State Board of Health take the time to receive so many professional visitors from other states and many foreign countries around the world?" Of course, the answers are many. As highly trained public health men and women, we like to share information with others. This interchange of ideas is valuable, too, in our own interest.

In the past we have relied on quarantine and distance to keep us free from major epidemics. Today when citizens of Manila, Philippine Islands, or Sydney, Australia, on Friday night are at home and then are in New York City or Washington, D. C., for Sunday dinner, distance and quarantine are not enough for our protection.

When we receive these visitors from other countries, we can win friends from far away for our state and country. We can and do broaden our own horizons and thereby help safeguard the future of our children. This is our opportunity that opens when health officers, state and county, and their staff properly receive the foreign visitor. Shall we not, then, welcome these public health friends from other shores, not as a trying ordeal when time with us in our crowded days is all too short for our own work, but as a golden opportunity to help others, ourselves, and our country at one and the same time.

The Mississippi State Board of Health has received more than twenty-five foreign public health visitors from fifteen countries already during this year. Our own state and nation, as well as the foreign countries represented have profited from the visits.

Farmers have successfully used thick mulch seeding on sericea lespedeza, clovers and dallis grass.

Bein able to drill seed and fertilizer in dry weather, often permitting early planting, is an advantage of the pasture renovating machine used in Prentiss County, according to County Agent A. G. Bennett, Boonville.

When land is broken by usual methods, livestock must be kept off, Mr. Bennett pointed out. With this new method, cattle can keep right on grazing the almost unharmed grass or forage crop in which grazing for the next season has been planted.

This is our opportunity that opens when health officers, state and county, and their staff properly receive the foreign visitor. Shall we not, then, welcome these public health friends from other shores, not as a trying ordeal when time with us in our crowded days is all too short for our own work, but as a golden opportunity to help others, ourselves, and our country at one and the same time.

The Mississippi State Board of Health has received more than twenty-five foreign public health visitors from fifteen countries already during this year. Our own state and nation, as well as the foreign countries represented have profited from the visits.

Farmers have successfully used thick mulch seeding on sericea lespedeza, clovers and dallis grass.

When we receive these visitors from other countries, we can win friends from far away for our state and country. We can and do broaden our own horizons and thereby help safeguard the future of our children. ## Recommend Consolidation Of Miss. Library Agencies

Jackson, Miss. — Special details of a recommended consolidation of three Mississippi Library agencies into a Department of Libraries giving the Governor appointive and controlling power and designed to effect a more efficient library administration at a reduced cost to the state is contained in the first report adopted by the Legislative Fact Finding Committee on State Government Reorganization.

The 12-member committee's report, covering the Department of Archives and History, the Mississippi Library Commission, and the State Library Board, recommends creation of a Department of Libraries to be headed by a 7-man Board of Library Commissioners which would be appointed by the Governor.

The committee's recommendation would create four subordinate bureaus—Archives, Library Services, Research and Reference, and Legal Reference.

The report, prepared by a sub-committee composed of Representatives James Blount, of Charleston, Representative George Howell of Aberdeen, and Senator Tom Ethridge, of Oxford, estimates that a saving of more than $70,000 could be effected for the biennium and that personnel could be reduced from 21 to approximately 12 without impairing services rendered.

Members of the proposed Board of Library Commissioners would be appointed by the Governor for staggered terms of seven years each. Three would be appointed from the state at large; two from a list of six recommendations made by the Mississippi Library Association, one of whom would be a graduate of an accredited school of library science with a minimum of two years experience in library administration, and two would be appointed from the faculties of the Departments of History of the institutions of higher learning. The Board would act in an advisory capacity only, administrative responsibilities to be handled by a director to be appointed by the Governor, on recommendation of the Board, to serve for a four-year term.

The seven functions two performed by three existing departments would be administered by the four bureaus recommended as subordinate to the Department of Libraries.

Some functions now handled by the Department of Archives and History would be transferred to the new Bureau of Archives. The Bureau of Libraries would perform activities now handled by the Mississippi Library Commission.

The Bureau of Research and Reference would handle functions now performed by both the Library Board and Department of Archives and History, and the Bureau of Legal Reference would perform duties now carried out by the Mississippi Library Board.

Summing up its report, the Committee predicted that its recommended administrative organization would "result in substantial savings of time and expense, eliminate duplication of activities, effect a more efficient and effective discharge of library functions, and pinpoint the responsibilities of library management in a single responsible public official."

Fact Finding Group Recommends Appointment of Highway Officers

Jackson, Miss. (Special)—Mississippi's three highway commissioners, now elected from supreme court districts, would be appointed by the governor and relieved of management responsibilities under a far-reaching recommendation made by a Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on State Reorganization which has also suggested in its second report that state highway funds be allocated on a district and statewide basis of need rather than under the present division of funds by districts. The report points out that Mississippi is the only state which elects the members of its Highway Commission.

The 12-man committee's 55-page report also suggested provisions for appointment by the 3-man Commission of a technically qualified director to supervise the committee's recommended new streamlined Department of Highways.

The committee's recommendations to the legislature calling for appointment of the commissions on a staggered basis would make them responsible only for policy making functions vesting in the director full responsibility for department management.

The group recommended that the eleven major divisions of the present state highway department be reorganized to include a bureau of Business Management and a bureau of Engineering, with planning operations and construction and maintenance divisions grouped under the latter. The present six district offices would function under the operations division.

The present method of disbursement of highway funds by districts on a basis of 37 1/2 per cent to northern and southern districts, and 25 per cent to the central district, would be amended under the committee's recommendation to the legislature. The report suggests that "Not less than 20 per cent of such funds be allocated to each district, with the remaining 40 per cent to be allocated state-wide on the basis of need."

The committee's only other major recommendation in the report, which also covered transportation, concerned the comparatively new Mississippi Aeronautics Commission which was created in 1946 to develop and promote aeronautics and exercise regulatory and enforcement use of aeronautics laws. The recommended change would relieve this commission of its enforcement powers and invest them in the Department of Public Safety to "insure adequate enforcement without compromise of the development functions."

A further recommendation would abolish the Natchez Trace Right-of-Way Commission and transfer its duties to the Department of Highways.

Commissions under the appointive system would be named for staggered terms varying from two to six years initially with six year terms for all thereafter.

They would appoint the director for a six year term, who in turn would be responsible for organization and management of the department.

Qualifications set up for the director would require him to be a civil engineer, graduated from a recognized school of engineering, with five years or more of actual professional experience in highway administration or highway construction.

Establishment of the department, Senator Culin, Chairman, stated, would in his opinion achieve a more efficient administration of the state's highways, focus responsibility, insure supervision and control, and economize in the discharge of the highway function."

Primary function of the commission, aside from appointing the director, would be to formulate broad policies of the department and discuss and advise with the director, at his request, current programs of the agency.

The present Division of State Aid Road Construction would become the Bureau of State Aid Road Construction with no further change in the statute governing its activities.

Forest Services Goal For 1950-51 200 Guardian Clubs

Having as one of its chief aims the development of a wider knowledge of the conservation of the state's forest resources and the value of trees and how they serve mankind, the Mississippi Forest Services announces as one of its goals during the 1950-51 school year the organization of 200 Forest Guardian Clubs.

The organization of these clubs will be confined to public schools in counties having 40 percent or more of their total land area in timbered and uncultivable acreage.

While the organization of these clubs will be one of the primary objectives of area rangers in their respective counties, announcement has been made that more emphasis and attention will be given the program from the state office of the Information and Education department of the service, has been assigned the overall supervision of the program from a statewide level.

The organization of Forest Guardian Clubs has for five years been one of the main educational objectives of the Forest Service and last year 131 such clubs were organized.

Handbooks and program material for carrying on the program has been secured and will be made available by Mr. Livingston to all area rangers for schools organizing clubs. In this connection Mr. Livingston and the area rangers will be assisted in reaching the goal by the district foresters of the state.

Mr. Livingston, working through the district foresters and area rangers, will also have overall direction during the approaching school year in the planting and utilization of school forests.

It will be the goal of the Forest Service to have in operation at least five such forests in each county and they will be used in connection with the teaching of the forestry textbook, such forests to be used as laboratories to portray lessons in fire prevention and control.

School superintendents and teachers desiring further information concerning the above projects are requested to contact the area forest rangers in their counties or write direct to Mr. E. B. Livingston at the State Forest Service in Jackson.
